

Key Learning

- To use a title that covers the whole subject.
- To write a brief introduction paragraph.
- To record Information that is organised into paragraphs.
- To use sub-headings for each category.
- To write a glossary that explains technical language.
- To use sentences written in a formal tone.

Non-chronological report sentence starters

It is advisable to be aware that...

It is crucial to remember...

Are you aware that...?

Are you able to imagine...?

Upon thorough examination,...

Scientists recommend that...

Key Vocabulary

clarify	factual	glossary	statistics
informative	conclusion	outline	photograph

What should I already know?

How to structure a non-chronical report. Introductory paragraph, point, elaboration and conclusion.

Some language features such as rhetorical questions, emotive language and the use of hypothesis.

Organisation for your writing

Feature	Tick
A title to tell the reader what your writing is about.
You need a clear introduction.
You need a clear conclusion.
Your writing is grouped into fully developed paragraphs about key ideas.
Your writing uses technical vocabulary.
You use subheadings to organise your paragraphs.	